PIECE GOODS BOYCOTT.

CHINESE DEALERS' GUILD'S DISPUTE WITH IMPORTERS.

No developments of importance have occurred in the boycott of fancy piece goods by the Chinese dealers, which has been in progress for more than a month. Early in October all British and foreign firms interested in piece goods received from the Chinese brokers a new form of contract, on which, and on no other, the brokers declared, Chinese piece goods dealers would do business in future.

The document bore no indication of its origin, but the Chinese Piece Goods Guild, of Jervois Street, when asked, admitted that the form emanated from them. The proposed contract differed considerably from the Standard Form of Piece Goods Contract, unanimously adopted by the Hongkong General Chamber of Commerce in August, 1921, at the request of, and after negotiation with, the Chinese Piece Goods Guild.

POINTS IN DISPUTE.

The Guild's proposed contract suggests an important change in business methods, namely, ordering for arrival instead of for shipment. Such a method would mean that dealers could refuse goods which arrived a few days after the end of a month: at present they are bound to accept them so long as they are shipped within the month stipulated for. Manchester and Bradford manufacturers, of course, would not accept a proposal such as the Chinese Guild puts forward, since the arrival date would be beyond the shipper's control; and he would be merely gambling on acceptance of the goods at the end of the voyage. All the shipper can do is to insure that the goods are shipped to time.

It is not thought that the Chinese are serious in making this proposal. They really wish to secure a reduction of the rate of interest charged on goods not cleared to time. Importers reply to this that they do not want the interest; they want the goods cleared; and that an even higher rate of interest would be desirable to this end.

Piece goods importers have unanimously signified their adherence to the Standard Form of Contract—the more readily that the Chinese proposals are manifestly unworkable. Meanwhile, although no new business has been done during the month, and the boycott has been extended to spot cargo, clearances have been proceeding steadily, the market being thus relieved of accumulations.

CHINESE METHODS OF DISPUTE.

Chinese methods of conducting the present dispute have been typical of those with which the community became familiar during the strikes in the early part of this year. First, the Guild raised criticisms of the standard form of contract—drawn up, be it noted, at their request. Full discussions took place between them and representatives of the General Chamber of Commerce; and the latter offered to meet them in certain respects. Months elapsed, during which the offered concessions were never even acknowledged and then the Guild—more or less surreptitiously—promoted the boycott.

The compradores are all in strong opposition to the Guild's proposals, which they realise will greatly increase their liabilities. Signs are not wanting now, that the Guild will bring into the dispute, as mediator, the Chinese Chamber of Commerce and a modus vivendi may soon be reached.

A REVENUE OFFICER'S REVOLVER.

CHARGED WITH UNLAWFUL POSSESSION.

A Chinese Revenue Officer, No. 21, was charged at the Magistracy, yesterday morning, before Mr. Hamilton, with having unlawfully in his possession a Smith and Wesson police pattern revolver, and 20 rounds of ammunition.

Sub-Inspector Pincott said that early in the present year the Revenue authorities withdrew all revolvers from Chinese Revenue Officers. Later five were issued. All Chinese Revenue Officers were warned that they must not have any private revolvers in their possession. Acting on information received, he visited the defendant's house at No. 178, Des Vaux Road and there found a dagger. The defendant had made a statement to the effect that he had a revolver which was kept in Yau-mat. The police visited the Chinese Revenue Officers' quarters in Yau-mat, where a box belonging to the accused was broken open. The revolver was not discovered. Later a revolver and a belt of ammunition were handed to the Police by another Chinese Revenue Officer.

The defendant said the revolver had been given to him by his son.

The Magistrate:—Is there any suggestion that he is leading a double life?

The Inspector: That the Police cannot prove.

The Magistrate:—It is an extraordinary case altogether. I will remand the case to next Thursday. Bail $2,000.

Mr. Hind, appearing for the defendant, asked if bail could be fixed at a little less than that.

The Magistrate:—No, but I can make it $1,000 cash and two sureties of $500 each to be approved by the Captain Superintendent of Police.

A HUGE THEFT ALLEGED.

MR. H. G. THEYKEN ARRESTED AT SHANGHAI.

Mr. H. G. Theyken, former manager of the Hongkong branch of Liggett and Myers Tobacco Company, was arrested on his arrival in Shanghai on the 1st inst. on charges of grand larceny. Mr. Theyken, accompanied by his wife, arrived at Shanghai from Hongkong on the steamer Shikang. He was brought before the United States Commissioner's Court for China on November 2nd, charged with the theft of six million cigarettes from the Liggett and Myers Tobacco Company at Canton. The U.S. District Attorney, Maj. Mr. C. P. Holcomb, and Mr. F. J. Schuhl appeared for the prosecution and Mr. R. S. Haskell for the defendant. The preliminary hearing was set for Saturday, November 11th.

Mr. Schuhl asked that the bail be made sufficiently large and suggested $810,000. Mr. Haskell said that this seemed unnecessarily large, inasmuch as the defendant had served the complaining company for 12 years, that he was here with his wife and that his only world possessions available with the exception about $1,000 were 54 shares of common stock in the Liggett and Myers Co. and five of preferred stock, with three Liberty Bonds of $1,000 each. He asked that the accused be allowed to deposit these shares as security, since they were gilt-edged and quoted far above par.

Maj. Holcomb contended that it was inadvisable for the U.S. Court to accept any kind of stocks as security, as it might involve it in complications should any title prove faulty. He advised that the accused borrow money on this excellent security and deposit cash.

The Commissioner set the amount of bail at $80,000, but said it must be cash or two responsible property holders.

Mr. Theyken is the second man from this tobacco company's southern offices to be apprehended recently and held by the American authorities of Shanghai. On October 2nd, H. B. Falcone, former assistant manager of Liggett and Myers at Canton, who was a passenger on board the steamer President Grant, en route to Seattle was arrested on charges of embezzlement and subsequently released on bail of $600 gold.

SERIOUS CHARGE AGAINST A BANK CLERK.

Yesterday morning a Chinese named Yuen Chik Chuen, said to belong to a good family in Hongkong, was charged before Mr. Hamilton, at the Magistracy, with having, whilst employed as a clerk at the Bank of Canton, forged on Oct. 7th and uttered a dividend and bonus warrant of the Bank of Canton; and with having received, by virtue of the said document, a sum of $619.33.

Mr. Bennett appeared for the prosecution and asked for a remand to go further into the case.

The Magistrate asked how much the defendant was alleged to have got away with.

Mr. Bennett replied that the amount roughly came up to $2,000. They were only able to prove the present charge at the moment. It was possible that a bigger amount might have been involved.

The defendant was remanded on bail of $5,000.

THE ARMS CASE.

DEFENDANTS AGAIN REMANDED.

O. J. Smyth and W. Pitts (Australians), and three Chinese, were again remanded at the Magistracy, yesterday, on a charge of illegal possession of a large quantity of arms and ammunition, which were found at the King Edward Hotel, the Palace Hotel and on the s.s. President Jefferson.

The Magistrate (Mr. Hamilton) announced that Mr. J. R. Wood had now definitely decided to take the case himself. It would not be heard before two Magistrates.

The bail was accordingly extended in each case to the date of the hearing. Pitts' bail is $3,000 and in each of the other cases $1,000 is required.

IMPRESSING THE MAGISTRATE.

A COMPLAINANT WHO CHANGED HIS COAT IN COURT.

There was rather an amusing little incident yesterday: a one of the many common assault cases which came before the Magistrate for hearing. The complainant apparently had been roughly handled and his face had been cut open by a Chinese cup. He wore the blood-stained coat in which he had been assaulted and, judging by its appearance, quite a lot of blood had been spilled. The defendant did not make an appearance in Court and the Magistrate (Mr. J. R. Wood) ordered his bail of $10 to be forfeited. The complainant appeared highly satisfied with this, and without waiting to leave the Court-room divested himself of the gory garment, which he replaced by a clean white coat. Evidently the jacket had been worn with the idea of impressing the Magistrate.

PROFESSOR EINSTEIN IN HONGKONG.

WORLD-FAMOUS SCIENTIST PASSES THROUGH.

The distinguished scientist, Professor Einstein, arrived in Hongkong yesterday, by the Kitano Maru and goes on to Japan this morning. The local Jewish community desired to arrange a reception in honour of the visitor, but Professor Einstein intimated that he is in need of rest and would prefer a quiet time during his stay in Hongkong. The Professor motored round the island, calling at Repulse Bay Hotel for tiffin, and he also made the jaunt much appreciated by tourists, round Victoria Peak by way of the new Lugard Road, which affords an "aeroplane view" of Hongkong, the harbour and Kowloon; returning by Harlech Road which gives such delightful vistas of the islands.

When passing through Singapore, Professor Einstein was presented by the Jewish community with an address, of which the following were the salient passages:—

We deem it a high honour to receive you, not only as a son of our ancient race but as one whose mind has soared beyond the range hitherto marking the limits of human attainment, and has solved problems which for centuries have baffled the finest intellects. Your theory of Relativity startled and then charmed the world's greatest physicists, astronomers and mathematicians, and by its popular exposition you have made the Einstein Law a fascinating theme on which the minds of millions of thoughtful men in all countries dwell eagerly.

So distinguished a service to science warrants us in placing you among the greatest pioneers of human thought, men like Democritus, Galileo and Newton, whose labours marked new epochs in the advance of knowledge and brought us nearer to that full comprehension of the universe which is the goal of intellectual aspiration.

You have revolutionised the old ideas of space, time and matter, shattering illusion and making the wonders of a beautiful and amazing world still more wonderful.

In past time, genius such as yours has often been frowned on and even condemned as heresy. Happily the uplifting influence of those who feared not to look beyond the narrow horizon of their age has created in all men a readier will to learn, and you are already honoured wherever the higher conceptions of what is great and good are comprehended and cherished.

We understand that the expeditious completion of the Jerusalem University is a matter very near your heart, and to commemorate your marvellous achievements and the service you have rendered to mankind, we pledge ourselves to raise funds to assist in the noble work. It is our hope that the Directorship of the new University will be entrusted to you, and that, secure from vicissitudes of fortune, you may be enabled peacefully to carry on your precious studies, adding to the home of our forefathers the lustre of your own world-renowned name.

THE HELENA MAY INSTITUTE

PROFESSOR SIMPSON'S SECOND LECTURE.

A second lecture on the Plays of John Galsworthy was given at the Helena May Institute yesterday morning by Professor Simpson. On this occasion the lecturer drew a comparison between Galsworthy's plays and the plays of the older dramatists. He tried to show by a brief quotation from the author that "every grouping of life and character is inherent life and that it is the business of every dramatist to bring that out." This was Galsworthy's theory. It was, he said, not the intention of Galsworthy to bring out the moral in the old way, nor did he wish to set up any new code. The lecturer recounted the stories of several plays and showed how Galsworthy sailed between the two theories. Professor Simpson was unable to see in what way the author did draw a moral. Galsworthy seemed to evoke conflicting emotions. Being a modern dramatist he appeared to be anxious to draw forth the more subtle emotions, as against the old Greek theory of producing the blunt emotions of pity and terror.

The whole movement of modern literature, continued Professor Simpson, was to try and find a new ground—an outlet for the more refined emotions, and this was what Galsworthy seemed to do. The lecturer discussed the difference between Wilde, Shaw and Galsworthy. The plays of the first two, he said, were full of brilliant epigrams and paradoxes. These were missing from the latter. Wilde and Shaw made their characters speak better than they could in real life. Galsworthy on the other hand, tried to represent every-day life. He successfully displayed his characters and conveyed the atmosphere with a minimum of words, as, for instance, in his description of prison life in "Justice" which was conveyed in a word or two in the Governor's office before they saw the prison at all.

Professor Simpson intimated as Galsworthy's essence of dramatic character, the character of Capt. Dancy in "Loyalties," which was produced in London in March, 1922.

At the conclusion of the lecture Prof. Simpson was heartily thanked for his lectures, which were described as most helpful and instructive.

COMPANY MEETING.

CHINA LIGHT AND POWER CO., LIMITED.

PROPOSAL TO INCREASE THE CAPITAL.

The fourth ordinary general meeting of the shareholders of the China Light and Power Company (1918), Limited, was held yesterday morning at the offices of the Company, Mr. H. G. Shevan presided and there were present: Dr. J. W. Noble, member of the Consulting Committee, the Secretary of the Company (Mr. Poon I Choo), and the following shareholders:—Messrs. Felix M. Ellis, A. S. Ellis, A. A. Cordaro, A. A. Gutierrez, J. Toppin, A. A. Botelho, J. M. Alves, S. F. Chubb and Mr. W. J. Hawker.

Before proceeding with the proposal for the adoption of the report and balance sheet, the CHAIRMAN apologised to the shareholders for the appearance in that morning's newspapers of an advertisement proposing that the authorised capital be increased. It was not the intention to publish the advertisement until after the shareholders had received full report of the proposal. The notice was published owing to some misunderstanding. He could only express his regret at the occurrence.

Proceeding with his proposal for the adoption of the report and balance sheet, the CHAIRMAN said:—Gentlemen,—We lay before you a statement of accounts for the twelve months ended September 30th, 1922, which, unless any shareholder objects, we will dispense with reading, as it has been in your hands for some days already.

Our income for the year has increased from $220,830.57 to $266,657.02, an appreciable improvement, and we propose to deal with the balance at credit of profit and loss account, $132,005.83, by writing $25,000 off the goodwill account (bringing it down to $25,000), placing $7,005.68 to the credit of bad and doubtful debts account, and paying a dividend of 50 cents per share on 200,000 shares absorbing $100,000.

Our business, I am glad to say, continues to make steady progress and the number of units sold was 5,311,530 against 4,484,200 last year, an increase of 20 per cent.

As to the future, we think there need be little doubt about that; the population of Kowloon is increasing rapidly, as you know, and large building operations are going on, from which this Company must benefit.

Now with regard to the accounts and our financial position, I said last year that some adjustments would have to be made in book values owing to the exchange of the old site and station for a new site, etc. This has been done and the amended figures are now before you and represent only the new property belonging to the Company; the values of the old site and station have disappeared altogether, the new site has been valued by Mr. Mowbray Northcote at the conservative figure of $2 per square foot, and the gain of $92,699.83 in the book value has been used in depreciating the values of buildings and fixtures and overhead mains, as these items suffer more severely from wear and tear than the others.

Goodwill will soon be at a nominal amount and the other figures shown in the balance sheet will represent a brand new light and power station much below what it would cost to-day to install at the present prices of building and labour.

As you will see, we are heavily in debt, debentures and overdraft totalling about $750,000 which will be increased to $850,000 on payment of the dividend. This is too large a debt for a Company with a capital of only one million dollars. We, therefore, propose to obtain further capital by the issue to shareholders of 100,000 new shares at $5, at a premium of $5 per share, or $10 in all, which we propose to call up as follows:—

$2.50 per share payable on 4th January, 1923.
$2.50 per share payable on 5th April, 1923.
$2.50 per share payable on 5th July, 1923.
$2.50 per share payable on 27th Sept., 1923.

I now propose that the report and accounts, as presented, be adopted and passed and the profit for the year be distributed as proposed. When that has been seconded I shall be pleased to answer any questions from shareholders.

Dr. Noble seconded the proposal which was carried unanimously.

On the motion of Mr. A. A. GUTIERRES, seconded by Mr. F. M. ELLIS, the Hon. Sir Paul Chater, C.M.G., Messrs. H. P. White and A. H. Compton were re-elected to the Consulting Committee. The election of Dr. Noble, during the year, to the Consulting Committee was also confirmed.

Mr. A. A. Botelho proposed the re-election of Messrs. Linstead and Davies and Messrs. Lowe, Bingham and Matthews as auditors for the ensuing year. The motion was seconded by Mr. A. A. Cordaro and carried.

This was all the business before the meeting.

CONSTANCE TALMADGE AT THE CORONET.

One of those roles which have endeared her to millions of film lovers the world over, falls to vivacious Constance Talmadge in "Good References," the sparkling comedy which is being shown at the Coronet to-day. In the picture she appears as a girl who takes up references in order to get a job and thereby lands herself in a situation rich in humour and ludicrous incident. Certain it is that Hongkong picture-goers will require no commendation of the winsome Constance herself—her name stands for all that is bright and brisk and sprightly.

JAPAN'S WITHDRAWAL FROM SIBERIA.

THE withdrawal of the Japanese forces from Siberia, with the exception of those in the province of Saghalien, which covers not only the island but also extends to the mainland, has been accomplished, and the Russian Reds, as expected, have quickly swept away the White Government which depended upon the Japanese for support. The Japanese troops in Saghalien province are retained there until compensation is forthcoming for the Nikolaevsk outrages, in which a number of Japanese lost their lives—a very controversial subject as it is alleged that the small Japanese force which was stationed there brought the disaster upon themselves by their treachery. However, the withdrawal from Siberia was accompanied by a sigh of relief from the Japanese Press, which has been unanimous in condemning the expedition as injurious to Japan's commerce and to her finances. The Japanese military authorities are inclined to regard the Japanese public as inappreciative of their efforts to extend the dominion of the country, hinting that the fruits of the expedition will be seen later on. The only apprehension among the public was that the Japanese remaining in Siberia would suffer when the Russians again took possession, and that many of them would be forced to abandon their businesses and return to Japan, but although there have been a large number of Japanese who have withdrawn with the returning Japanese forces, they are said to be "merely hangers-on of the camp, ladies of doubtful reputation, and adventurers out for what they could get otherwise than by work." The actual Japanese residents have been undisturbed. No doubt they also rejoiced in the withdrawal of the Japanese forces, as it has been their complaint that the expedition only interfered with their trade while it made them open to all sorts of exactions.

The power of the Soviet Government now runs from Moscow to Vladivostok, for the Chita Government which is now in possession of Vladivostok, is a creature of the Soviet Government though carrying on a nominally separate existence, and Japan has thus had brought to her doors the Bolshevik rule of which she is so apprehensive as tending to unsettle the minds of the people. The authorities have already announced that efforts must be redoubled in order to prevent dangerous thoughts, entering the minds of the people of Japan through the renewed intercourse with Russia which is the logical conclusion of the withdrawal of the Japanese expedition, and Russians in Japan will for a long time be under suspicion of being Bolshevik propagandists. The prospects of trade, however, are too great to admit of the process of espionage being carried too far, and it may therefore be expected that both countries will in time settle down into normal relations, though at the same time the presence so near to Japan of a country where different political ideals prevail cannot but affect her political system.

As usual, there has been the inevitable scandal which seems to be the accompaniment of so many of Japan's political movements. This time it was in connection with the munitions which had been assembled at Vladivostok, and left there by different owners or taken from the Russians by the Japanese military authorities. These included the arms of the Czechoslovak troops, which were supposed to be under the guardianship of the Japanese, and also some arms belonging to the American, British, French and other expeditionary troops. Some time ago a rumour was started that a portion of these munitions, those belonging to the Czechoslovak forces, were missing. One of the Japanese papers made a sensation by announcing that they had been handed over to CHANG TSO LIN, and inquiries made by the other papers showed, in spite of much denial and subterfuge by the Japanese military authorities, that the report was true. CHANG TSO LIN has, of course, long been a special protégé of Japan, and it is possible that it was by the use of these arms that he intended to assert his supremacy in North China, and in South China also, with the co-operation of Dr. SUN YAT SEN. For a time the Japanese War Office held out against the Foreign Office, with stout denials, but finally it had to concede a point, and it was agreed that a scapegoat should be selected and tried for the offence. One of the agents in the deal, a Major HARA, was persuaded to take the whole blame on himself, and he was duly tried by court-martial and sentenced to eighteen months' imprisonment, execution of the sentence being postponed, however, for two years. This practically means that he was bound over not to do it again. In his statement in the court he said that he acted entirely without orders, and according to the Press accounts of the trial the Court almost wept in sentencing him, while his brother officers were moved to tears.

The Press, however, unanimously rejected this solemn farce as an attempt to hide the person really guilty, and condemned the War Office root and branch, but it is improbable that anything further will be done, although, of course, a slur has been ostensibly cast on military discipline. As a matter of fact, the discipline is notoriously good, and Major HARA would no more have thought of walking off with the munitions on his own account than he would of flying to the moon. The high military authorities are the guilty parties but, for obvious reasons, they cannot be brought to trial. The whole affair shows that, in spite of protestations to the contrary, the military authorities have complete independence from the civil power and go their own way, dragging the civil authorities after them. It is a reflection of the military government of feudal times which has not yet been erased.

REMEMBRANCE DAY.

Of all forms by which we may keep in mind the meaning of Armistice Day, none will make wider appeal than that of wearing the poppy. The association of the poppy with the day is fitting: Long ago poets recognised that for

Happy hours the rose will idly blow;
The poppy bath a charm for pain and woe.

But today the link comes rather through the poppies by Colonel John Macrae, himself killed soon afterwards in action, who wrote:

In Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place,
If ye break faith with those who die,
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields.

Thus, most fittingly, the British Legion uses the emblem, with a solemn significance when it asks every one to buy poppies for the help of its members who may be in need of adversity of any sort. Enrolled in the Legion are just upon three-quarters of a million men—and women—without whose strong arms and willing service victory would not have been won. It is perhaps hardly necessary to repeat here that the Prince of Wales is patron of the Legion and that Field-Marshal Earl Haig is its president.

Last year in the course of the five weeks preceding Armistice Day something like 8,000,000 flowers were prepared, but this number proved lamentably insufficient. This year something like 30,000,000 will be available.

A few thousands should be sold in Hongkong on Saturday, but we understand that the call for ladies to sell them has met with a disappointing response so far, and it is hoped that many more will promptly offer their services.

A distribution centre in connection with the Armistice Day "Poppy Drive" has been established at Volunteer Headquarters, where the members of the organising committee will be busy all to-day arranging the final details of the campaign. The telephone number is Central 240, and anybody seeking information or assistance in connection with the "Drive" is requested to ring up and ask about it.

(THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.)U.S. ELECTION RESULTS.
REPUBLICANS LOSE SIX SENATE SEATS.

New York, November 8th.
The Republican control of the Senate is not threatened, although the party suffered a net loss of six seats.

The Republicans carried eleven and the Democrats nineteen, of the thirty-five contests. The Democrats are leading in five of the outstanding contests.

The Republican majority in the Senate is at present twenty-four. Senator McCumber, author of the new tariff law, is among those who have been defeated. REPUBLICAN MAJORITY IN THE CONGRESS.

New York, November 8th.
Following is the latest position of parties in the new Congress: 218 Republicans, 204 Democrats, one Socialist, and one Independent.

Outstanding returns number thirteen, of which the Republicans only require to win two in order to retain control of the House of Representatives.

LATER.

The Republicans have now the necessary 218 seats to ensure their retention of a majority in the House of Representatives.

The Democrats won 206: Socialist, Farmer-Labour and Independent winning one each. Returns are complete from all except nine districts.

SENATOR LODGE'S OPPONENT DEMANDS RECOUNT.

BOSTON, November 8th.

Mr. Gakton, the democratic opponent of Senator Lodge has demanded a recount in view of the unofficial estimate that Senator Lodge only had a majority of 1,945 votes from the million which were cast.

REPUBLICANS LEADING BY FOUR.
WASHINGTON, November 8th.

Latest returns to hand show that the Republicans hold two hundred seats and the Democrats one hundred and ninety-six.

EARLIER CABLES.

BIG DEMOCRATIC GAINS.

"HE GOT HIS REFERENDUM."

New York, November 8th.

The New York Times in a leader attributes the Democratic successes in the elections chiefly to the opposition to the tariff.

The Democratic organ, the World, asserts that Senator Childer, the defeated Republican candidate in New York, invited a referendum on the tariff, and adds: "He got his referendum."

REPUBLICAN MAJORITY THREATENED.

New York, November 8th.

The Democratic tide in the Congressional elections continues to rise all over the country. President Harding's great Republican majority is threatened with extinction, as some of the most prominent figures in the Republican administration have been defeated.

Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, has apparently been elected, but he ran far behind the Republican ticket.

THE "WETS" HAVE IT.

Senator Frelinghuysen, of New Jersey, an intimate friend of the President, has been beaten by the Democrat, Edwards, who openly espoused the "wet" cause. Beveridge, of Indiana, who was regarded as a possible Republican candidate for the Presidency in 1924, is still behind his Democratic opponent for election to this Senate.

Senator Reed, of Missouri, has been re-elected to the Senate. The Socialist, Victor Berger, of Wisconsin, has been elected to the House of Representatives, thus making up for the defeat of Meyer, London, the only Socialist member.

The Republican, Miss Alice Robertson, the only woman member of Congress, has been defeated by a man.

Mrs. Winifred Huck, of Illinois, has been elected to fill her father's unexpired term in the House of Representatives, but will only sit until March.

REPUBLICAN LOSSES IN SENATE.
New York, November 8th.
The election returns hitherto show that the Republican majority of 94 in the Senate has been reduced to 10, and there are indications of further reductions.

WASHINGTON, November 8th.

The Navy Department has ordered the battleship Pittsburgh to proceed immediately to Constantinople from Gibraltar to guard against eventualities.

A TURKISH CABLE CUT.

LONDON, November 8th.

Disquietude has arisen in London owing to the complete absence of news from Constantinople since the message announcing a rebellion by the Turks of their demands. Messages now coming in by indirect routes show that the silence has been due to the Turks having cut the cable between Chapak and Bokale.

Martial law has not yet been imposed. Two British soldiers have been murdered at Kassimpasha.

A SERIOUS WARNING TO ANGORA.

ALLIED HIGH COMMISSIONER'S NOTE.

CONSTANTINOPLE, November 8th.

At seven o'clock this evening, the Allied Commissioners handed a Note to the Angora Representative, stating that, if the measures adopted by the Kemalist authorities in the city, in flagrant violation of the Mudros and Mudania Conventions, are not withdrawn, they will consult their Government regarding the adoption of the necessary urgent measures.

EARLIER CABLES.

ALLIED EVACUATION AGAIN DEMANDED.

LONDON, November 8th.

Contrary to reassuring reports in London to the effect that Rauf Pasha yesterday expressed his readiness to cancel the projected military and economic measures, in consequence of the Allied General's objections, tonight's message from Rauf's Constantinople correspondent says a telegram from the Angora Government reiterates the demand for Allied evacuation of Constantinople and removal of the Allied warships. The demand declares that the presence of the troops and warships is incompatible with Kemalist administration of Constantinople.

MARTIAL LAW EXPECTED.

The telegram from the Angora Government was in reply to the last Allied Notes.

A Paris message says an Allied proclamation of martial law in Constantinople is expected shortly.

A WARNING FROM LORD CURZON.

LONDON, November 8th.

Lord Curzon, speaking at the Cannon Street Hotel, said Mr. Lloyd George's record would be inscribed in lasting letters, but some of his actions had not been helpful to the Foreign Office, notably his manifesto of September 10th, appealing to the Dominions, which was issued without the knowledge of the speaker (Lord Curzon) or the Cabinet. The expert work of the Foreign Office should be performed by a trained staff, subject to Cabinet control, without interference by amateurs; however brilliant they might be. Our foreign policy was now the Empire's, not merely Britain's. The co-operation of the Allies was necessary on the questions of reparations and the Near East, and the Anglo-French Entente was more valuable than any written pact.

KEMALISTS INTOLERABLE PRETENSIONS.

Lord Curzon said he still hoped for a settlement of the reparations question by agreement; settlement by force was impracticable. The pretensions of the Kemalists were intolerable—they were an affront to the Allies and a challenge to Europe. He trusted that the unity of the Allied authorities in Constantinople, whose request to establish a neutral zone was endorsed by the British and French Governments last night, would be maintained. Britain was prepared to contribute to the maintenance of unity, but if unity were broken owing to no action but our own, we should be unable to support the burden alone. He therefore appealed to the country to sustain the policy of common action and strength, then the hands of the Government in defending the honour of the flag and peace. The Turks must learn that there is a limit to concessions, and that the strength of Britain and the might of Europe are a rock when on they will hurl themselves in vain.

REPUBLICAN MAJORITY?

WASHINGTON, November 8th.

Members elected to the House of Representatives so far number 192 Republicans, 191 Democrats, one Socialist and one Independent.

PROHIBITION UNPOPULAR.

New York, November 8th.

The referendum in Illinois is showing heavy majorities in favour of legalisation for the manufacture and sale of beer and light wines, the vote running three to one for a modification of the Prohibition Act. A similar amendment is also leading in Ohio.

Mr. Volstead, of Minnesota, the father of the Prohibition Act, has apparently been defeated in the Congressional election. His opponent, however, stood for an even drier platform than Volstead.

CLAIMS FOR MAINTENANCE OF TROOPS.

WASHINGTON, November 8th.

The British, French, Italian and Belgian Ambassadors have submitted proposals to Mr. Hughes recognising the equality of American with Allied claims on Germany for the maintenance of troops of occupation. It is understood that the Allies pointed out the impracticability of advising at present the whole system of reparation allotments, but outlined a plan for the reimbursement of America.

NEW BRAZILIAN CABINET.

RIO DE JANEIRO, November 8th.

President Bernardes assumes office on November 15th. He has appointed the following Cabinet: Minister of Foreign Affairs, D. Pacheco; Minister of Interior, D. Alves; Minister of Finance, D. Vidal; Minister of Public Works and War, General Curvalho; Minister of Marine, Admiral Alencar; Minister of Agriculture, D. Calmon.

EARLIER CABLES.

THE EXCHANGE MARKET.

FURTHER SLUMP.

LONDON, November 8th.

The acute demoralisation of the foreign exchange market, resulting in fresh low records, is attributed to the unsatisfactory news regarding the stabilisation discussions in Berlin and a further substantial increase in German paper money, together with the developments at Constantinople.

French francs are 72.30, Belgium francs 78.90 and German marks 40.00, all sellers. Much of the weakness of the French franc is due to apprehensions with regard to the precise effect of any prolonged German default in the matter of reparations payments.

LATER.

The final rate of German marks was 47.00; French francs 72.20; and Belgian francs 70.70. On the other hand, the New York rate on London improved to $4.46.

GERMANY'S FINANCIAL PROBLEM.

UNOFFICIAL EXPERTS' REPORT.

BERLIN, November 8th.

The proposals embodied in the report of the unofficial experts, Mr. J. M. Keynes, Mr. Brand, Mr. Jenks and Professor Cassel, who were called in by the Government to help solve the financial problem, aim at the stabilisation of the mark on a dollar basis of from 3,000 to 3,500 marks, with the help of the Reichsbank gold reserve and by freeing Germany, at least for two years, from all reparation payments in cash and in kind.

The experts are of opinion that half the Reichsbank gold reserve would suffice for the requisite re-purchase of paper marks, which would be restricted to German bank notes, especially those in foreign possession, and not include Exchangeable Bills. They suggest that modest credits might be obtained from a consortium of bankers to support the stabilisation, but admit that a large foreign loan cannot be expected until the reparation problem is finally settled.

IRELAND.

MORE FIGHTING IN DUBLIN.

LONDON, November 8th.

One Free State soldier was killed and 20 wounded, several irregulars were wounded and six captured, a civilian was killed and a little girl wounded in a two-hour battle at Dublin, following the "Irregulars' attack on Wellington Barracks, occupied by Free State troops. While the Free State were parading in the barrack square, the irregulars poured in machine-gun and rifle fire from the house-tops and the canal bank, mowing down many troops. Others took cover and replied to the fire. Free State reinforcements were rushed up from Portobello Barracks and surrounded the district. The inhabitants became panic-stricken.

$30,000,000 OF BANK NOTES DESTROYED AT CANTON.

CANTON NONE THE POORER FOR IT.

The Canton Times of yesterday reports:

Some thirty million dollars were destroyed by being cast into the fire last Tuesday. General Wong Keong was the "extravagant" fellow.

It may be recalled that when Dr. Sun Yat Sen of the Constitutional Government was directing an expedition against the North early this year, the Southern President issued a large volume of military notes for use in the war. After having circulated about $500,000 in Kiangsi, some $1,500,000 were burned by General Wong Keong of the Seventh Line of Defence when he took over charge from Huang Ta Wei, a commander of Dr. Sun. Upon investigation, some $30,000,000 more of notes were discovered in Canton within what was formerly the Ministry of Finance, and General Wong, now director-general of the Arsenal as well, ordered the same to be destroyed in order not to further tax the Cantonese with worthless paper money. The bonfire took place at Kwang-tai Road in front of General Wong's headquarters and attracted no little attention. A sign of relief was noticed among many after the destruction of these notes.

PATRIOTIC SOCIETIES AND COSTLY BALLS.

A PRACTICAL SUGGESTION.

The following letter, signed "An Ex-Guest," appearing in the Japan Chronicle, is applicable to other places in the Far East beside Kobe:

With November approaching, and merrymaking of a St. Andrew's Ball in the air, as an ex-guest of long-standing I feel urged to voice what surely must be in the minds of a great many. The feeling is: Can we continue to anticipate complacently the prospect of but a handful of men entertaining in their hitherto lavish style the members of a huge and ever-growing community? With most of us, under present conditions, the mere effort to make both ends meet is a continual care. There can be no comparison of the life now with that of the times when St. Andrew's Balls were started, apart from this generous hospitality that leading feature of life in the Far East always evident among the Scotch, as it is also with their fellow residents. A moment's thought, therefore, brings the reflection: Why should this great extra strain be the lot of those few? It does not seem right.

Many of us can fortunately remember many delightful evenings afforded us by our good Scotch hosts in memory of St. Andrew, and with those delightful recollections may we not rest contented until, at least, life in the East is a good deal easier from a financial point of view and until our papers can give us a happier picture of conditions in other lands?

FOREIGN BANKS IN THE PHILIPPINES.

SERIOUS RESTRICTIONS PROPOSED.

MANILA, November 8th.

A Bill has been introduced in the Senate prohibiting foreign banking corporations from accepting money or securities either as time or checking deposits. The enactment of the Bill into law would force foreign banks to incorporate under Philippine laws and become merely exchange banks, or else to retire from the Philippines.

Foreign banks are not subject to the internal revenue laws, which the Bill's sponsors claim, gives them an advantage over local banks.

THE TEA CLIPPER ERA.

"R.E.J." in a letter referring to the Cutty Sark and the tea clipper era generally points out that the statement is incorrect that the Cutty Sark and the equally famous Thermopylae were the fastest clipper ships ever launched. This honour belongs to the Lightning and the James Baines, both American built wooden clippers, owned and run by the famous Black Ball Line. The highest recorded speeds ever attained by sailing ships were held by these two wonderful clippers. The James Baines on one occasion in the Southern Indian Ocean attained a speed of twenty-one knots with main sky sail set, and the Lightning had a day's run of 436 knots to her credit on her maiden trip across the Atlantic, and another day's run of 430 knots in a nautical day of 23 hours, in the Southern Indian Ocean in 1857.

These runs have never been approached by any of the tea clippers, but they were larger and more powerful ships in every way. It is also incorrect, he says to state that the Cutty Sark is the last of the tea clippers. The beautiful little Lothair (built by Pile, of Sunderland) is still afloat. He saw her in the early nineties in Callao, where she was then owned, looking as spry and span as a yacht. He gives it as his opinion that the Lothair was a more beautiful example of the clipper shipbuilders' art than the Cutty Sark.

Captain Thomas Carr, Southampton, says the news about the Cutty Sark will gratify all old sailors, and especially those who knew her when they were boys making their first voyages, and perhaps saw her sail into Shanghai Harbour about fifty years ago. The characteristic of all the China clippers was elegance. They were not broad and handsome like the Blackwallers; they were lovely, with that elusive female quality which, in women, we call charm.

Designed to bring home one cargo every year of choice tea—the most delicate freight in the world—their lower holds and tween-decks were thoroughly cleaned and fumigated after the outward general cargo was discharged. Then they were lined with bamboo matting for dunnage, and coiled stavedores stowed the fragile chests of tea, fitting them into their place with the compactness of the pieces in a Chinese puzzle.

Built in Scotland for a Scotsman—John Willis, who owned also the wonderful Tweed—she made a great reputation sailing out of London. But when her youth was gone she fell into the hands of aliens, who partly dismantled her, robbed her of her figure-head, and even took away her honours name. At last she is rescued by another Scotsman, a loyal master mariner, who had known and admired her many years ago, and had sailed in her company, and so she comes home in her old age to the "haven under the hill"—to the harbour under St. Anthony's head—to Falmouth, where so many home-ward-bound ships have called, and shall call again, for orders.

The price paid for the famous erstwhile tea-clipper was £3,750, by Captain Dowman, of Falmouth, Falmouth. She is to be presented to the nation.

CONFESSIONS OF DE VALERA.

DOCUMENTS FOUND ON A FAIR MESSENGER.

["DAILY EXPRESS" SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

DUBLIN, September 25th.

Extraordinary disclosures concerning de Valera—disclosures that will come as a bombshell to all that remains of his shattered Republican movement—are to be made public by the Provisional Government this week.

By one of the cleverest strokes to the credit of the Government's secret service, a series of remarkable confidential communications from de Valera to William Mulcahy, his confidential in Mountjoy Prison, have just been seized.

A beautiful and smartly dressed young woman, who would never be suspected as an accomplice of the insurgent leaders, was the messenger. The letters came through Mrs. de Valera, living in Grey-stones, a few miles from Dublin, and were being taken to the prison by the girl despatch-carrier when she was apprehended.

When Free State men proceeded to examine the documents in her possession she protested vehemently against her love-letters being taken and her sacred confidences being violated.

The communications reveal the hopelessly chaotic state of the entire Republican organization.

More significant still are the confessions by de Valera of his personal errors in judgment which led up to the beginning of civil war. In one letter he states quite frankly that he should have repudiated Rory O'Connor's occupation of the Four Courts. He deals in others at some length with his Republican theories, many of which have undergone a complete change since he was last heard to expound them.

He admits that he egged on his dupes to fight and precipitate civil war on account of the merest shadow of difference between his own views and those held by Michael Collins and Arthur Griffith at the time they signed the treaty.

By 2 min. 15 sec. F. L. Barnard won the King's Cup in the air race round Britain on September 8th. F. P. Raynham was second, and less than ten minutes after him came A. J. Coghlan. Of the thirteen machines which started on the second day of the contest eleven flew the complete course.

THE STILLMAN DIVORCE SUIT.

After a bitter fight lasting more than two years, and attracting international attention, Mrs. F. F. Stillman on Sept. 29th won a sweeping victory over her husband, Mr. James A. Stillman, a former president of the National City Bank of New York, when his application for divorce was refused by Referee Gleason, and the legitimacy of the baby Guy affirmed. Mrs. Stillman was also absolved of the charge of misconduct with Fred Beauvais, the Indian guide. Despatches from Carmel, New York, where the decision has been filed for acceptance or rejection by the Supreme Court, add that the accusations of illegal conduct between the banker and a New York actress are substantiated by the decision, which finds that Stillman had maintained Mrs. Florence Leeds as his wife, and had two children by her. Referee Gleason declares that the testimony offered by Mr. Stillman in support of the allegations of his wife's misconduct with Beauvais appeared at first to be plausible and uncontradicted, but careful examination of the testimony has shaken his faith and belief in the testimony of the witnesses called on the plaintiff's behalf. It is entirely probable that Mr. Stillman will appeal from the decision. The recognition of the baby Guy as the son of Mr. Stillman, and not, as alleged, the son of Beauvais, entitles this child to a share of one-fourth of the $1,500,000 trust fund left by the late Mr. James Stillman, father of the plaintiff. The suit for divorce was begun on July 18th, 1929, and continued in this country and Canada until 7,000 pages of evidence had been piled up. The chief question involved was the paternity of Mrs. Stillman's son Guy. One of the most sensational features of the case was the introduction by Mr. Stillman of four letters alleged to have been written by Mrs. Stillman to Beauvais and by him for $2,000. The guide denied the charge. Last January Mrs. Stillman was 40 degrees below zero in a trip through the St. Maurice River Valley to secure witnesses who testified that the relations between her and Beauvais were simply those of employer and servant, and that they had heard of heavy bribes being offered for testimony supporting the charges of misconduct against Mrs. Stillman. It is estimated that Mr. Stillman has spent more than $100,000 in the divorce litigation.

"SEXASPERATION."

"Are flappers immoral?" asks a clergyman "from Lincoln." We are sick to exasperation of these eternal sex conundrums (says the Daily Express). We venture to think the public shares our peculiarity. Short skirts do not, and never did, make short morals, nor are cigarettes in the mouth of woman a smoke barrage for vice. We have won, in relation to life, an inestimable asset that our grandfathers scarcely knew by name. It is called Candour. The transition from the false-closeted ingenuities that masqueraded as Victorian virtue has certainly been effected over-rapidly. The war has its share of blame. We are convinced, however, that parents are awake to the danger, and are capable of coping with it, without a brass band of rapid comment being blared from stage and pulpit. Let us end this perpetual gibbering and bleating about sex. The more we talk about it, the more we play into the hands of those who make capital out of it. The more capital that can be made from it, the more plays and novels will be produced concerning it. To the detriment of the morals of the flapper.

INSURING AGAINST MARRIAGE.

Insurance against the risk of a fascinating screen actress being married in three months is the novel proposition taken by the Famous Players Lasky Company, one of the leading United States film-producing organizations, in connection with the forthcoming visit to the United States of Mlle. Pola Negri. Though her films are made in Europe, Mlle. Negri has become a "star" on the screen in the United States. She is due to arrive in the U.S. next week, and will remain three months making pictures for the Famous Players. With the company the actress stipulates that should she marry during the time it is in force she should be relieved of any further obligation to fulfill its provisions. The film company, capitalizing Mlle. Negri's charms at $250,000, instructed its brokers to take out an insurance policy of that amount, payable in the event of her marriage before the completion of her contract. Such risk being outside the list of "legitimate hazards" specified by the laws governing United States insurance companies, the brokers have been obliged to apply to Lloyd's, London.

GIRL SWIMMER BITTEN TO DEATH.

The fashionable seaside resorts of Florida were much agitated by the tragic death of Dorothy McClatchie, an 18-year-old girl, who was killed while on a long-distance swim by a giant barracuda, known to fishermen as the "tiger of the seas." Miss McClatchie, the champion swimmer of the States, started with a friend, Mary Buhner, on a practice swim to a buoy half a mile from the shore. After rounding the buoy Miss Buhner was startled by the sudden disappearance of her companion, who came to the surface a moment later, gasping, "I've been bitten. I think my foot is gone." The water was stained with blood. Miss Buhner swam to the injured girl, and caught her by the shoulders. "Ki-me, Mary; I'm dying," were the only words Miss McClatchie uttered. Miss Buhner raised herself in the water and made signals with her bathing cap to boatmen half a mile away. When help arrived the gallant girl was supporting the dead body of her friend, who had suffered a score of wounds from a ferocious barracuda. There were two gashes 14 inches long, and one of them had severed an artery of the left leg. The great barracuda of Florida, a voracious pike-like fish, is often six feet long, and as dangerous as a shark.

Peps
SOON STOP
SORE THROAT
SPREADING DOWN TO THE LUNGS.

THE throat is usually the first spot to feel the evil effect of any sharp change in the weather. That tickling sensation at the back of the mouth, that slight hoarseness when speaking, that difficulty in swallowing, are all symptoms of sore throat, and unless these symptoms are promptly got rid of by a course of Peps treatment, the trouble will gradually work its way through the breathing passages right down to the lungs.

Avert this danger by breathing in the medicinal fumes that come from Peps tablets as they dissolve on the tongue. A soothing and comforting sensation is felt as these Peps fumes circulate through the nostrils and mouth straight to the danger spot in the throat. Inflammation and soreness of the membrane that lines the throat and breathing tubes from the mouth to the lungs are stopped, and all germs that have settled in the throat are destroyed.

"SIGNED UNDER DURESS."

IRISH MINISTER AND THE TREATY.

Thirty-one amendments to the Irish Free State Constitution Bill were tabled when the Provisional Parliament went into Committee on the bill on September 28th. Before moving the first article declaring the Irish Free State a co-equal member of the community of nations forming the British Commonwealth, Mr. Kevin O'Higgins, Minister for Home Affairs, who was in charge of the bill for the remainder of its progress, made an important introductory statement.

There had been much said about the Treaty, he observed, to the effect that there was duress when it was signed. Undoubtedly there was in the facts of the situation. Undoubtedly the "big stick" was there. The fact that war stood as the alternative was undeniable. The fact, if it were a fact, that war was explicitly presented as the alternative to one of the signatories did not alter the situation very much one way or the other. It was a question of a comparison of sticks, and undoubtedly in the face of the alternative the Treaty was signed. The position was that the Irish people, confronted with a certain set of facts and circumstances, deliberately made their choice and took the Treaty as the best thing that could be got in the circumstances of the time, not believing very much in the prospects of getting anything better.

Now I hope, Mr. O'Higgins said, "and I am expressing the mind of a good many people in the country, that in the case of a treaty made under such circumstances and conditions the position is simply that any moment in the future the majority will of the Irish can publicly and absolutely without dishonour repudiate that treaty if they consider it wise or advisable to do so, and if, after weighing the pros and cons of the situation, they are prepared to take the consequences of doing so. Therefore, in our opinion the majority will of the nation is at all times sovereign. It is sovereign now, it will be sovereign at all times in the future, and we do not deny and do not limit that sovereignty. It is for that sovereignty we are fighting now, but as long as the Treaty is the policy of the nation, then the Treaty in all its bearings and implications must be the policy of the nation, and the nation must stand honourably by that policy." Mr. Gavan Duffy, the ex-Foreign Minister, and one of the signatories to the Treaty, Mr. O'Higgins asserted, had suggested, that because the Treaty was a contract they could avail themselves of any loophole to evade honouring the implications of the Treaty. "This Government," the Home Minister declared, "will not dishonour the signature of Deputy Gavan Duffy, even at Mr. Gavan Duffy's invitation, because when he signed that Treaty he signed on behalf of the Irish nation. That is the position. If the majority will of the nation accepts this Treaty it must honourably act up to it. It is a political experiment. We do not propose to mould in cast iron our country's rights, and we do not for one moment think that in passing this constitution we are fixing a limit to the development of the country." Moving the first article, he said it was a fair statement of the Treaty position; it recognised nationhood, and placed the country in the community of nations hitherto known as the British Empire as coequal with Great Britain.

Mr. Cathal O'Shannon, one of the Labour leaders, moved an amendment to substitute for Article 1 the following: "Ireland is a free State, and shall be known as Saorstát Éireann, Irish Free State. All powers of government and all authority—legislative, executive, and judicial—are derived from the people, and shall be exercised through and under the organisations established by or under the constitution, and in accord with this constitution." Mr. O'Shannon claimed, in particular, that the whole and not a part of Ireland should be known as the Irish Free State. The amendment was defeated by 38 votes to 44.

An amendment by Mr. Gavan Duffy to make Article 2 read "That all powers of government, etc., are derived from the people of Ireland," the words "of Ireland" being inserted into the draft, was accepted by the Home Minister after a plea by Mr. Thomas Johnson, leader of the Labour party, that for official purposes Ireland should be known as the Irish Free State. "The country," he said, "is still a unit, even though the powers of the Dail are no longer exercised in the north-eastern area. It is a mistake in my opinion to interpret this Treaty as though the partition could take place by virtue of the decision of the Northern Parliament." If the Northern Parliament decided to contract-out they in the Free State Parliament had agreed to delegate powers of government to a Parliament established by an Act of the British Parliament. "If," he added, "we hold that option we will have a much greater chance of maintaining the symbol of unity which should not be lost sight of in this assembly."

AMERICA'S LOST MARKS.

AN EXCHANGE PARADOX.

The New York World on October 27th, in a special article on "the most gigantic financial delusion in history," estimates that America has "invested" since the war $240,000,000 in German paper money which today is worth not more than $14,000,000.

In other words, America, the victor in the war, has "annihilated" Germany more than twice as much gold as Germany has paid in war reparations to date. Ten million American speculators have lost their money in this way. British losses due to the same cause are estimated at $170,000,000.

"OLDER THAN THE SUN."

"I am inclined to believe that the earth is much older than the sun, and much older than the present structure of the universe," said Professor A. W. Bickerton in a lecture at the Royal Botanic Gardens on September 27th.

"Pessimism," he declared, "is not the doctrine of eternal death, 'is not the message of science; its message is an optimism higher and finer than any superstitious priestcraft or formal dogma. It is the teaching of the Inspired Peasant of Nazareth." Professor Bickerton deplored the present-day lack of interest in science among the general public.
